AN ATHLETIC EVENT

Some Square Sport at the Dorris Theater Last Night.

The athletic entertainment at the Dorris theater last night was full of ginger from start to finish, and the audience was more than satisfied. There was no faking, and in most of the contests strength and skill of a high order were shown. Had it been generally known that the programme would be so good the house would have been crowded. As it was, the attendance was rather light. There was a wrestling match and five boxing contests, and the interest was keen throughout. The final contest, which was between Nicholson and Lazarus, became so exciting, in fact, the referee wisely took advantage of a foul committed by Lazarus to declare that the show was over.

The wrestling bout was between Van Sickle of Indianapolis and Burton of San Francisco, and on appearance the audience picked Burton for the winner. He having a considerable advantage, apparently, in size and compactness of build. But Van Sickle won, two falls out of three. At the beginning of the struggle Van Sickle with cat-like rapidity threw Burton but failed to land both shoulders on the floor, and Burton with equal quickness turned the tables and got his antagonist in chancery. After a struggle of more than four minutes, Burton finally floored his man. Both were considerably winded. In the next bout Van Sickle made a clean throw in thirty seconds, and in the last bout after a nip and tuck contest in which each seemed to be on the point of winning time and again, Van Sickle threw Burton at the end of two minutes and a half.

Space will not permit of a detailed description of the boxing contests, but all were good. The first was between the "Apache Kid" and "Kid Dasher" for four rounds, and ended in a draw. Pasco and Bordeau, two Mexican boys, displayed unusual knowledge of boxing. Three rounds were boxed, to a draw.

A very rare contest was that between Eldred and Howell. The sparring was clean and spirited, and showed creditable skill on the part of both. Three rounds were boxed, and the decision was a draw.

Donovan and Tyson gave a fine exhibition, and the audience was alternately cheering each boxer. After four rounds the decision was given to Tyson on aggressiveness and skill, but opinion was about evenly divided as to the justice of the decision.

The star card of the evening was the contest between Nicholson and Lazarus, and from the minute they shook hands the spectators were "on" that something would be doing. The boxing was soon in an uproar of cheers. Joyful howls greeted the clean knockdown which Nicholson administered to Lazarus in the first round. Lazarus took the count, and was fresh when he got up. In a clinch which immediately followed he struck Nicholson and a foul was claimed by Nicholson's seconds, but was not allowed. After a consultation with the principals the referee explained that the boxers had not understood the rules and that the foul blow was struck by mistake.

In the second round Nicholson again knocked Lazarus down, and the latter arose with a bleeding nose. It appeared to the spectators, however, that Lazarus was in better condition, and if anything was doing better boxing. He was certainly the aggressor in the two rounds following, and the lively mix-ups had the house wild with delight. At no point in the entertainment had anybody been hurt, and all the spectators were in fine humor. Not so much could be said for Lazarus and Nicholson, however. They were "after" each other in earnest.

The third round consisted of clinches as much as sparring, and each boxer was playing for wind. When the bell rang Nicholson was decidedly groggy.

The fourth round was a repetition of what had preceded, until in a clinch with one arm free, Lazarus with his right struck Nicholson over the kidneys. A foul was claimed, and the ring was quickly filled with excited seconds and friends of the principals, and it looked for a minute as if the referee would have several matches on his hands. As soon as the uproar subsided sufficiently for him to be heard, he awarded the decision to Nicholson because of the foul.

PEACE ON THE WABASH.

Everything Pointing to an Early Amicable Adjustment.

St. Louis, April 2.—Everything seems to point to an amicable adjustment within a very short time of the differences existing between the Wabash Railroad company and its employees. During the day attorneys for the parties to the controversy held several conferences that had for their purpose the paving of the way for a resumption of the negotiations between the railroad officials and the brotherhood men, broken off on March 3 by the issuance by Judge Adams of a writ of injunction.

It is stated that at these conferences, at which Hannahan and Lee, the brotherhood officials, were present, many of the minor differences were disposed of and the field cleared for discussions of the main differences.
